PRESIDENT EISENHOWER LANDS IN EUROPE

McDonald Returns To Steel Talks; Strike in 7th Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald returns to contract negotiations with major American steel producers today, after announcing opposition to any use of the Taft-Hartley Act to force the steel strikers back to work.

President Eisenhower at his conference Tuesday repeated his contention that both sides must solve the problem by collective bargaining, and R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, has maintained that collective bargaining, not government intervention, is the best way to settle the strike.

The Taft-Hartley Act gives the President the power to order strikers back to work for 80 days, while a fact-finding commission investigates the issues.

As the strike entered its seventh week, there was no settlement in sight.

McDonald walked out of the steel negotiations almost three three weeks ago, on the ground that they were getting nowhere. He said he is returning at the request of the federal government.

McDonald would not comment on a report that the union would set a deadline for progress in the talks, and that if no progress was made by that time it would break off negotiations altogether.

He did say, however, that he expected to find no more basis for settlement now than when he quit Aug. 7.

The union reportedly has been seeking a 15-cent hourly package increase for each year of a new contract. McDonald said the 15-cent figure was fairly accurate for the last hours before the strike began, but now is "misleading and erroneous."

Now, he said, the union is "starting all over again."

He didn't give any idea what the union demand would be, but he said previous proposals have been taken off the bargaining table and the union will now be guided by the union Wage Policy Committee's goals formulated last spring.

The committee called for "substantial" wage increase. Earnings before the strike averaged $3.11 an hour.

The industry's position has been that any increase in labor costs would force a rise in the price of steel, and thus be inflationary. The industry reportedly has offered a two-year contract, with increased benefits the first year, and a "modest" wage increase the second year, provided the union agreed to change some plant working rules to reduce labor costs.

United States Wants To Sell American Goods to Russians

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced today it is willing to sell the Soviets a vast array of products displayed at the American exhibition in Moscow. The items range from a house to a screwdriver.

Secretary of Commerce Fredrick H. Mueller described the offer as a good will gesture. Such a sale presumably also would be good business for Uncle Sam. It would save him the cost of shipping the goods back to the United States.

There was no immediate word whether the Soviets were approached in advance about the proposal, or whether they would be interested.

The offer covers about 1,800 American-made items, including the $200,000 closed circuit color TV unit before which Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Premier Nikita Khrushchev last month held their impromptu debate on the cold war. Also on the list is the medium-price prefabricated house which the Soviets have claimed is much better than most Americans can afford.

Mueller announced the proposal in a special statement which said: "This trade offer is both a sincere gesture of good will to the Soviet people and a definite opportunity for the Soviet Union and the United States to do business."

The phrasing of the announcement indicated that some American products displayed at the fair will not be made available to the Soviets. However, Commerce Department aides declined to clarify this point.

About 1,000 items covered by the offer normally would require U.S. export licenses before they could be sold to the Soviets.

Items offered include all equipment in a model kitchen display, home furnishings, hand and portable tools, radios, a complete home workshop, he equipment, pleasure boats, sporting goods, office equipment, farm machinery, automobiles of all kinds, photographic equipment, motion pictures, air conditioners and fashionable American clothing.

Tiger Scrimmage At Bexley Field

Circleville High School's football scrimmage with Bexley tomorrow will be on the opponents' field. It was announced today by CHS Coach Carl Benhase.

The two squads originally were scheduled to meet here, but the plans were changed at the last minute. The practice session will start at 9 a. m. tomorrow. A regular practice is slated here in the afternoon, Coach Benhase said.

Lockbourne Flier Grounded Due to Bridge Stunt

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Flying a six-engine B47 Stratofortress under the Straits of Mackinac (Mich) bridge has cost a 39-year-old Air Force captain his flying status.

The Strategic Air Command (SAC) admitted Tuesday that Capt. John S. Lappo, a 12-year flying veteran from Muskegon, Mich., piloted the big jet through the 150-foot clearance between bridge and water on April 24.

The 3,800-foot suspension bridge connects Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas.

Lt. Col. Bill G. Fendall, information services officer at Lockbourne Air Force Base here, where Lappo is stationed, said the decision on his penalty was reached last week. Lappo, who pleaded guilty at his court martial, will be fined $50 a month for six months and has received an official reprimand, Fendall said.

Time and Opposition Work Against Bond Rate Repeal

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Time and hard-core Democratic opposition worked today against congressional action this session on President Eisenhower's repeated demand for repeal of the interest rate ceiling on government bonds.

House leaders, however, still left the door open to the chance of passage of legislation raising the interest rate on "E" and "H" Savings Bonds from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 per cent. These are the kinds of bonds bought by individuals.

Eisenhower prodded Congress again Tuesday to act before adjournment on raising gasoline taxes to finance the deficit-ridden highway program and to enact minimum essential housing legislation.

But of greatest importance, he told Congress in a pair of special messages, is action on repeal of the interest rate ceiling to permit orderly management of the record 290-billion-dollar public debt.

A billion-dollar compromise housing measure, carrying some of the same but watered-down provision that led to the veto of an earlier bill is due to be passed by the House Tuesday and sent to the President just before adjournment.

An increase of a cent a gallon in the gasoline tax for the next 22 months, to provide highway building revenues, has been voted and reaffirmed by the House.

Three Injured In Collision

Three persons were slightly injured in a two-car crash at 9:30 a. m. yesterday on Route 23 about one mile south of South Bloomfield.

Waneta Dearth, 30, Columbus, and Sandra Dearth, 3, passengers in the car driven by Kenneth D. Dearth, 27, suffered bumps and bruises on the head. The driver was not injured.

The other car was operated by John C. West, 59, Route 2, Ashville, who was not injured. Inez B. West, 55, a passenger, received a knee laceration and bruises.

State Highway Patrolman C. D. Wolfinger said the Dearth car struck the rear of the West car. Both autos were headed south.

Wolfinger said the Dearth car, a 1959 sports model, was heavily damaged. Dearth was cited for failure to have assured clear distance ahead, he said.

China May Force India from Neutral Spot

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A leading Indian newspaper chain said today that Communist China has declared a cold war against India which is forcing this country to forget about nonalignment.

The Indian Express, published in New Delhi, Bombay and Madras, said China's policies since the Tibet revolt last March have frightened her neighbors and alienated her friends.

The result, the Indian Express said, is an "agonizing reappraisal" which is bringing Indian foreign policy more closely in line with that of the Western nations.

The article, signed by the Express Delhi editor, said the Indian-Chinese treaty of coexistence of 1954 is "dead" — buried five fathoms deep.

The article said that in return for India's continued proffering of friendship, "Peiping has declared cold war on India, dubbing her expansionist and imperialist, and obstructing Indian trade in violation of the treaty."

"Whether India likes the role or not, non-Communist nations on the periphery of the Chinese land mass will increasingly look to her (India) as they prepare to defend against Chinese Communist expansionism," the Express added.

"China is accomplishing for the West what the United States has been attempting all these years in vain. For this is exactly the role the West has desired India to play in Asia and which India has persistently refused to accept."

"This is the time for Uncle Sam to hawk SEATO around once again, and this time he will find many takers."

India and many of her neighbors held aloof from SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, when it was organized in 1954.

Another leading newspaper, the Statesman of Calcutta and New Delhi, reported new tensions between Communist China and Bhutan, the tiny protectorate which Nehru has said India would defend against any attack.

The Statesman said the Chinese recently imprisoned two Bhutanese mailrunners at Yatung, a Tibetan city through which most Bhutanese commerce from India passed for years.

The Statesman said there has been so much interference that Bhutan is no longer using the Yatung route. The story declared that among those involved in incidents in Yatung were the prime ministers of both India and Sikkim who "were detained by the Chinese virtually at submarine gun point."

The Statesman did not say when the incidents occurred, or give the source of information.

British Say Ike Opens Peace Era

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — The British view President Eisenhower's trip to Europe as the start of one of the greatest peace initiatives undertaken by any American president.

Leaders of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government view the President's meetings with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as a chance for Eisenhower to lay the basis for a cold war truce, a live and let live arrangement with the Soviet Union in the H-bomb age.

"This is a tremendous event (and) may prove the beginning of a new era in the history of mankind," declared one widely read newspaper. "His object is nothing less than to save mankind."

"Ike's mission reminds me of a crusade," one veteran British diplomat said. "It is the sort of thing any British prime minister would give his all to do yet knows he cannot because modern Britain is not strong enough."

But Macmillan is expected to tell Eisenhower how he thinks Khrushchev can best be handled, talking on the basis of his own experience in Moscow six months ago. And Eisenhower will tell what Vice President Richard M. Nixon concluded after his visit to the Soviet capital.

The two then will try to work out a strategy which Eisenhower can use in his own encounters with the quick-witted Russian.

A world-ranging survey of the mounting challenge of Soviet communism is slated by the two Western leaders.

The West's ability to meet the Communist challenge depends largely on the state of Allied unity in the next few years. For that reason — although American and British spokesmen would never admit it publicly — Eisenhower and Macmillan will devote much time to two of their colleagues whose personalities and policies have aroused controversy among the Allies. They are French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

De Gaulle's ambition to make France a powerful nuclear nation will come out in their talk about the state of the North Atlantic Alliance and De Gaulle's demands that the West back France's Algerian campaign.

Both Macmillan and Eisenhower want a strong France. Probably they will agree to meet De Gaulle's demands as far as they can. But they do not want to implicate themselves in Algeria or seem to surrender to the French President's threats.

Relations with Adenauer involve the long-term problem of an overall German settlement.

Eisenhower and Macmillan know relations with the Soviet Union never will be stable until Germany's future as a united or divided country is agreed on. They also know Adenauer will resist such concessions to the Soviet Union as a ban on West Germany's use of American nuclear weapons.

And they are determined to preserve German's military links with NATO after Adenauer quits public life — without killing all chance of agreement with the Soviet Union.

Rogers Urges Soviet Visit

Says Lawyers Should Study Red Courts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers today proposed an exchange of visits between American and Soviet lawyers.

In a speech to the American Bar Assn., he said that such exchanges would dramatize the contrast between a free system of government and a regimented Communist system.

"It is my opinion," Rogers said, "that the legal profession should give its support to a carefully planned exchange program of lawyers and judges in order that the Soviets may study our constitutional system and the operation of our courts; and that we be given an opportunity to study the system in effect in the Soviet Union."

Tuesday, after hour long debate, the association accepted a report defending the U.S. Supreme Court in an attempt to balance off a report of six months ago criticizing the court.

But its policy-making group, the House of Delegates, emphasized that neither report, made by separate bar committees, represented an official stand by the ABA. They were merely opinions of the committees which drew them up, it said.

When the House of Delegates met last February at Chicago, it adopted resolutions of its Committee on Internal Security urging Congress to strengthen laws dealing with internal security.

The same committee, in a separate report on which the House took no action, cited 24 Supreme Court decisions which it said illustrated "how our security has been weakened."

Lights Fizzle, Traffic Gets Confusing

Driving on Court St. here last night and today was slightly confusing and extremely hazardous.

Reason for the confusion was that all traffic lights from High St. south to Corwin St. on Court St. showed a continuous yellow caution glow. Officers said a motor operating the traffic light switches at the police station burned out at about 11 p. m. yesterday. The lights in question stuck on the caution signal and have been that way since.

Patrolmen said desperate efforts are being made to repair the switch motor. Repairs would not be completed until at least 6 p. m. today due to trouble in finding the correct type wire for the equipment.

According to officers, the motor apparently short-circuited. They said the light operating equipment was installed here in about 1925.

Patrolmen were stationed at Court and Main Sts. last night and today to handle the heavy flow of traffic passing the intersection, plus adding protection for mid-day pedestrians.

Huge Crowd Jams Airport For Greeting

Adenauer Extends Welcome to U.S. Chief Executive

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Eisenhower brought his person-to-person diplomacy to Germany tonight and received a hero's welcome in this land he helped conquer 14 years ago.

The presidential jet plane landed at nearby Wahn Airport at 6:26 p. m. (12:26 p. m. EST) after a flight of 9 1/2 hours from Washington. This elapsed time included an hour spent in a Newfoundland stop for refueling.

The plane tilted toward a welcoming party of top German government officials headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The airport, 20 miles from the West German capital of Bonn, was decked with its most festive display. The red, white and blue of the United States fluttered beside the black, red and gold of West Germany.

It is the first time an American President ever has visited Bonn. And it marks also the first time an American President has been invited to Germany, a country against which the United States has fought two wars in this century.

The President left Washington early in the morning.

In spite of the hour, Mrs. Eisenhower got up and drove to the airport with her husband. Both were bright-eyed and smiling although they had less than six hours sleep.

Maj. John Eisenhower, their son, who is assistant White House staff secretary, came along and accompanied his father on the flight.

Because of the hour, Eisenhower had asked that government officials not show up to see him off and none did.

Eisenhower is going to Bonn, Paris and London as a prelude to trading official visits with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In lands where he soared to fame as the nemesis of Nazi aggressors, the President is prepared to lay down solemn promises that the United States once again will join in the use of force, if need be, to repeal aggression.

While sounding this warning to the Soviet Union, he also proposes to say that the United States seeks to be a loyal partner in advancing the cause of "peace with honor and justice."

These are two of the paramount purposes of a 10-day venture into personal diplomacy. Eisenhower listed them at a farewell news conference Tuesday.

He will confer separately with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

He will consult, too, on a more informal basis, with Foreign Minister Fernando Castiella of Spain in London. And in Paris he will see Prime Minister Antonio Segni of Italy and President Joseph M. A. H. Luns and Secretary General Paul-Henry Spaak of NATO.

The sessions will last from one to several hours. That scarcely offers time for solving massive cold war problems.

But the meetings may tighten ties of the West, bring more unity where evidence of disunity has become apparent, and enable Eisenhower to head into conferences with Khrushchev confident of Allied support.

The chief executive is taking four top officials to Europe, in addition to a dozen members of the White House and State Department staffs. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is going along. So are Thomas S. Gates Jr., deputy secretary of defense; Livingston T. Merchant, deputy undersecretary of state; and John N. Irwin II, assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

For Eisenhower, it was in many ways a precedent-shattering trip. He was traveling for the first time in a jet airplane—the same Air Force plane that took Vice President Richard M. Nixon to the Soviet Union.

Queen Elizabeth II of Britain for the first time is permitting a public ceremony at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish highlands when she welcomes the President to her vacation retreat next Friday.

Beatnik Talk "Keep Cool" Is Apropos

The beatniks have a saying, "Keep Cool", and everyone these days is trying to do just that.

Pickaway County residents are utilizing every means imaginable to "beat the heat", but to no avail. Mother Nature's forces are too strong and too steady.

Keep your ice tea and soft drinks handy, the refrigerator full of ice, the air conditioner running full blast and as few clothes on as possible for the torrid hot spell is to continue with no relief in sight.

For the fourteenth day of the month and the seventh day in a row, Pickaway County has sweltered in 90 degrees or above temperatures and today and tomorrow will be no exception.

YESTERDAY'S HIGH of 97 equaled the year's peak set Sunday. The year's second highest low temperatures were reached also, 72 degrees.

The year's highest low temperatures were reached on June 21 and 28 when the thermometer dropped to a dizzying 73 degrees.

LOW 72 DEGREES in early mornings were reached on June 29 and 30; July 29, and Saturday, Sunday and yesterday.

As was the case in the last week of June, the area's lawns are suffering from lack of rainfall and are literally burning up.

It has been reported also that many truck farmers and amateur gardeners are unable to harvest their market crops fast enough. Their products are maturing too quickly for harvest and therefore are rotting on the vine.

Precipitation is farther behind today than at any other time during the year in both monthly and yearling averages.

THE MONTHLY rainfall chart shows the area 2.34 inches behind and it is 5.42 inches in arrears of the yearly average. On March 31, the county was 2.13 inches behind on the monthly average, the closest to today's figures.

The Scioto River is also at its lowest stage this year, 1.83 feet. Its low mark was reached Monday when it registered 1.8 feet. Swimmers are advised not to try diving in the Scioto.

The three local sweet corn canneries are experiencing one of their worst years in history. Never before has corn ripened so quickly, due to the combined forces of heat and rain, and all three companies have been behind on the harvest since its inception.

Several of the canneries report that fields have been left unharvested because the corn matured before corn pickers could get to them.

At this point, only swimming pool owners and refreshment manufacturers wish the heat spell to continue.

7 Astronauts Practice Satellite Shot

JOHNSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The seven men who plan to be the first Americans to blast off into space have been practicing that maneuver — and the feat of returning safely to earth — with amazing realism in a Navy centrifuge here.

The Mercury astronauts say their training here has made them more confident than ever that they will be able to "fly" a satellite three times or more around the earth, at 18,000 miles an hour. They will have to put on brakes — in the form of reverse-firing rockets — firmly enough to ease down to a parachute landing off the Florida coast.

LONDON (AP) — The British view President Eisenhower's trip to Europe as the start of one of the greatest peace initiatives undertaken by any American president.

De Gaulle's ambition to make France a powerful nuclear nation will come out in their talk about the state of the North Atlantic Alliance and De Gaulle's demands that the West back France's Algerian campaign.

Both Macmillan and Eisenhower want a strong France. Probably they will agree to meet De Gaulle's demands as far as they can. But they do not want to implicate themselves in Algeria or seem to surrender to the French President's threats.

Relations with Adenauer involve the long-term problem of an overall German settlement.

Eisenhower and Macmillan know relations with the Soviet Union never will be stable until Germany's future as a united or divided country is agreed on. They also know Adenauer will resist such concessions to the Soviet Union as a ban on West Germany's use of American nuclear weapons. And they are determined to preserve German's military links with NATO after Adenauer quits public life — without killing all chance of agreement with the Soviet Union.

And they are determined to preserve German's military links with NATO after Adenauer quits public life — without killing all chance of agreement with the Soviet Union.

The two then will try to work out a strategy which Eisenhower can use in his own encounters with the quick-witted Russian.

A world-ranging survey of the mounting challenge of Soviet communism is slated by the two Western leaders.

Trans-Ocean Plane Gains 2 Passengers

NEW YORK (AP)—Twin girls were born aboard an airliner over the Atlantic today.

The mother, Mrs. William B. Stivers, was flying to Bethlehem, Ky., to give birth at the home of her husband's parents. He is a U.S. airman stationed in England.

The Pan American World Airways plane was heading from London to Gander, Nfld., en route to New York.

Capt. Roland A. Bell, Massapequa, N.Y., radioed this message: "Passenger aboard plane in Labor. Plane has No. 1 priority to land at Gander."

Then another message crackled: "Just been advised by stewardess that twins have been born. Will keep you advised."

After a stop at Gander came a third message: "Twins are girls. Mother and twins doing well at Banting Hospital, Gander."

Pan American said this was the first time twins had been born on one of its planes.

A doctor among the passengers and two stewardesses assisted in the birth. They are Dr. Clarence Ing, described as a missionary of the Seventh-day Adventist Church; and Ellen Mandzik and Yolanda Sisto, both of Manhattan.

Huge Crowd Jams Airport For Greeting

Adenauer Extends Welcome to U.S. Chief Executive

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Eisenhower brought his person-to-person diplomacy to Germany tonight and received a hero's welcome in this land he helped conquer 14 years ago.

The presidential jet plane landed at nearby Wahn Airport at 6:26 p.m. (12:26 p.m. EST) after a flight of 9 1/2 hours from Washington. This elapsed time included an hour spent in a Newfoundland stop for refueling.

The plane taxied toward a welcoming party of top German government officials headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The airport, 20 miles from the West German capital of Bonn, was decked with its most festive display. The red, white and blue of the United States fluttered beside the black, red and gold of West Germany.

It is the first time an American President ever has visited Bonn. And it marks also the first time an American President has been invited to Germany, a country against which the United States has fought two wars in this century.

The President left Washington early in the morning.

In spite of the hour, Mrs. Eisenhower got up and drove to the airport with her husband. Both were bright-eyed and smiling although they had less than six hours sleep.

Maj. John Eisenhower, their son, who is assistant White House staff secretary, came along and accompanied his father on the flight.

Because of the hour, Eisenhower had asked that government officials not show up to see him off and none did.

Eisenhower is going to Bonn, Paris and London as a prelude to trading official visits with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In lands where he soared to fame as the nemesis of Nazi aggressors, the President is prepared to lay down solemn promises that the United States once again will join in the use of force, if need be, to repeal aggression.

While sounding this warning to the Soviet Union, he also proposes to say that the United States seeks to be a loyal partner in advancing the cause of "peace with honor and justice."

These are two of the paramount purposes of a 10-day venture into personal diplomacy. Eisenhower listed them at a farewell news conference Tuesday.

He will confer separately with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

He will consult, too, on a more informal basis, with Foreign Minister Fernando Castiella of Spain in London. And in Paris he will see Prime Minister Antonio Segni of Italy and President Joseph M. A. H. Luns and Secretary General Paul-Henry Spaak of NATO.

The sessions will last from one to several hours. That scarcely offers time for solving massive cold war problems.

But the meetings may tighten ties of the West, bring more unity where evidence of disunity has become apparent, and enable Eisenhower to head into conferences with Khrushchev confident of Allied support.

The chief executive is taking four top officials to Europe, in addition to a dozen members of the White House and State Department staffs. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is going along. So are Thomas S. Gates Jr., deputy secretary of defense; Livingston T. Merchant, deputy undersecretary of state; and John N. Irwin II, assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

For Eisenhower, it was in many ways a precedent-shattering trip.

He was traveling for the first time in a jet airplane—the same Air Force plane that took Vice President Richard M. Nixon to the Soviet Union.

Queen Elizabeth II of Britain for the first time is permitting a public ceremony at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish highlands when she welcomes the President to her vacation retreat next Friday.

Rogers Urges Soviet Visit

Says Lawyers Should Study Red Courts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers today proposed an exchange of visits between American and Soviet lawyers.

In a speech to the American Bar Assn., he said that such exchanges would dramatize the contrast between a free system of government and a regimented Communist system.

"It is my opinion," Rogers said, "that the legal profession should give its support to a carefully planned exchange program of lawyers and judges in order that the Soviets may study our constitutional system and the operation of our courts, and that we be given an opportunity to study the system in effect in the Soviet Union."

Tuesday, after hour long debate, the association accepted a report defending the U.S. Supreme Court in an attempt to balance off a report of six months ago criticizing the court.

But its policy-making group, the House of Delegates, emphasized that neither report, made by separate bar committees, represented an official stand by the ABA. They were merely opinions of the committees which drew them up, it said.

When the House of Delegates met last February at Chicago, it adopted resolutions of its Communist Tactics Committee urging Congress to strengthen laws dealing with internal security.

The same committee, in a separate report on which the House took no action, cited 24 Supreme Court decisions which it said illustrated "how our security has been weakened."

Lights Fizzle, Traffic Gets Confusing

Driving on Court St. here last night and today was slightly confusing and extremely hazardous.

Reason for the confusion was that all traffic lights from High St. south to Corwin St. on Court St. showed a continuous yellow caution glow. Officers said a motor operating the traffic light switches at the police station burned out at about 11 p. m. yesterday. The lights in question stuck on the caution signal and have been that way since.

Patrolmen said desperate efforts are being made to repair the switch motor. Repairsmen said the difficulty probably would not be corrected until at least 6 p. m. today due to trouble in finding the correct type wire for the equipment.

According to officers, the motor apparently short-circuited. They said the light operating equipment was installed here in about 1925.

Patrolmen were stationed at Court and Main Sts. last night and today to handle the heavy flow of traffic passing the intersection, plus adding protection for mid-day pedestrians.

NO RETREAT — Before departing for western Europe, President Eisenhower promises America's allies that there will be no retreat from principle in any negotiations with Russia.

Water Supply Still 'Serious' In This Area

The Circleville area still faces a serious water shortage Public Utilities Manager Irvin Leist announced today.

Leist commended local citizens for their fine cooperation in conserving water, but noted that the supply situation still is serious due to the continuous heat wave gripping the area.

He said proper pressure for fire protection is one of the main problems here, explaining that the situation could get critical if the heat continues.

The water head said his department has pumped an average of more than one million gallons per day during August. This heavy consumption naturally makes pumping pressure low, he said.

The Statesman did not say when the incidents occurred, or give the source of information.

4-H Clubs To Honor Roy Rogers

Ohio 4-H'ers will halt their activities at the State Fair Friday long enough to present a gold key to one of their former members—Roy Rogers.

The famous cowboy star and his troupe are billed for two grandstand performances daily during the first four days of the fair. Following his afternoon performance on opening day, Rogers will appear at the Youth Center about 4:30 p. m. to receive a National 4-H Alumni Recognition gold key award.

The award honors former 4-H members who have achieved success in their chosen careers and have continued to exemplify effective community leadership and service to 4-H. Candidates for the award are nominated by Extension agents, local 4-H leader, club members, or other interested persons.

Rogers was one of eight persons named to receive the award last year in ceremonies at National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Due to other commitments, however, he was unable to attend; thus, the presentation this year at the state fair.

THE 4-H ALUMNI program is conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and sponsored by the Olin Mathieson Corp., Plant Food Division.

Rogers became a 4-H member in 1927 when he started raising pigs in Duck Run, Scioto County. On the basis of "exceptional 4-H achievement" he was chosen that year as a delegate to the Ohio 4-H Club Congress and the 4-H club camp.

Three years ago the entertainer was selected by Ohio club members for a state 4-H alumni award. At that time he received a copper plaque.

Stock Mart Creeps Up

NEW YORK (AP)—A cautious stock market groped its way to another slight rise in quiet dealings early this afternoon.

Changes of most pivotal issues were slight. A point either way was about the limit.

A scattering of selected issues made wider moves in response to special news or recommendations. Some activity in motors accompanied their generally higher tone. American Motors was up around a point.

An undercurrent of concern was present in regard to the stiffening of interest rates.

Airlines, tobaccos and building materials were pretty solidly ahead. Rails and utilities were mixed. The trend was irregularly higher among electronics, nonferrous metals, rubbers, mail-order retailers and steels.

American Steel Foundries hopped more than 3 in active dealings. Lukens Steel rose more than a point. Zenith added about 2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $229.70 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Government bonds backed away for the sixth straight trading session.

Venezuela Opens Court Contest Over Jimenez

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Venezuela's government has 60 days in which to convince a federal court that former dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez should be sent home to face theft and murder charges.

Venezuela's consul at Miami opened his country's campaign to extradite Perez Jimenez by filing a U.S. District Court complaint Tuesday charging murder, attempted murder and embezzlement. All are extraditable offenses under a 1922 treaty between the United States and Venezuela.

Perez Jimenez, arrested by marshals at his luxurious Miami Beach mansion, has been in Miami about 18 months.

State Patrol Recovers Car

An 18-year-old boy and a 16-year-old juvenile were picked up here Monday night driving a stolen car, according to State Highway Patrolman James Cooper.

Patrolman Cooper said the auto, taken in Piquette, was driven by Thomas Woodrow, 18, Portsmouth. Cooper stopped the car when it came off the local Route 23 bypass on the wrong cloverleaf.

Cooper said the driver had no operator's license or papers for the car. The youths told the officer that they had just let the owner out of the car to buy cigarettes.

Not fooled by the story, Cooper held the youths for further questioning. The juvenile later admitted that the car was taken in Piquette.

Cooper said the car was recovered before the owner knew it was missing. The car was returned to the owner, Christian Vogt, and the youths were turned over to Scioto County officials.

Ike's Europe Trip Affects Trade, Too

Three Blocs Vie For World Market In Intense Battle

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's trip to Europe today may center on political and military issues but trade problems can't be divorced from them.

Nor can his later verbal sparring with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev be without effects on American stock and commodity markets and on business planning. Dollars, pounds, francs, marks — and even rubles — sometimes talk while guns are silenced.

He'll find abroad three trading blocs in various stages of development — each of concern to the others and each in varying degrees of concern to American businessmen with overseas markets or faced with foreign competition here.

The blocs are:
1. The Soviets and their satellites — and when he comes here next month Khrushchev is expected to urge a thaw in trade relations between East and West as well as a political thaw in the cold war.

2. The Common Market — the inner six nations of West Germany, France, Italy, Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg — with internal trade problems and doubts of each other's potential industrial strength still to be allayed.

3. The Little Free Trade Area — The outer seven headed by England and including Switzerland, Austria, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Portugal. They also are still divided among themselves on many trade problems but united in hoping to wangle a working agreement out of the Common Market which they fear.

Specifically, England and to some extent France fear the growing economic strength of Germany as much or more than the political and military implications of a divided Germany.

And the general resurgence of West European industry in recent years puts problems to American industry. Many businessmen here feel that much of the European buildup into world trade competition came with the help of U.S. tax dollars in foreign aid.

Some U.S. firms seek to solve competitive problems by putting in plants abroad to produce on equal terms. Others seek to pep up their shipping exports by cutting costs, and so prices, or by improving products to outshine those of European competitors.

Still others, seeking inroads in the U.S. market by increasing imports of less expensive foreign goods but often well-built and attractive ones, are seeking government aid in the form of tariffs or import quotas.

The U.S. government has been trying to bolster exports abroad through trade missions abroad, entering trade fairs, and setting up business appointments abroad for American salesmen.

It also has been making some progress in getting other nations to relax or lift their curbs on goods from the dollar area.

But as competition for world markets becomes more intense, the efforts of various nations — our allies as well as our opponents — will step up their efforts to help their industries, too.

And these conflicts run like a thread through the issues that might seem on the surface merely political or military — merely ones of alliances or defense measures or ideological propaganda.

Ike Says Milton Didn't Bring Peace Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has denied that his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brought from the Soviet Union, a new proposal for solving the Berlin crisis.

Eisenhower told a news conference Milton hadn't said a word to him about it.

Eisenhower said, however, that he had heard that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had proposed solving the Berlin crisis by withdrawing Allied troops from West Berlin and in return giving West Berlin a free corridor to West Germany.

He gave no indication as to how he heard of the proposal.

He did say, however, he had never discussed it with the State Department or this country's Western Allies.

Idleness, Boredom Haunt Strikebound Steel Workers

The Cincinnati Enquirer last week sent Reporter Margaret Josten on a tour of Ohio Valley steel centers for stories on the effects of the steel strike. This is the second of her series.

By MARGARET JOSTEN
Cincinnati Enquirer Reporter
CINCINNATI (AP)—Flies crawl lazily over the grocer's outdoor watermelon display. Six or seven men lounging nearby show even less ambition.

It is a hot mid-afternoon on the main stem of Aliquippa, Pa. — steel town and little else. The Aliquippa workers of the big Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. is a mile or so down the highway. But it is quiet, closed by a strike.

Idlers at the grocer's and elsewhere along the dingy street in Aliquippa are millwrights, furnace stokers, scrap loaders.

They were on the J. & L. payroll until July 15 when the nationwide steel strike was called. Now, almost seven weeks later, they're nothing much to do but loaf or drink beer—or complain.

"It's hell just standing around doing nothing," says one husky millhand. He adds:

"I finished all my old lady's chores third week after the strike started. Fixed the roof. Painted the fence. Moved her rock garden. Now she complains about me getting in her way around the house."

Local Schools Get $137,203

School bells in Ohio will ring out within the next couple of weeks summoning young Americans back to their classrooms after traditional summer vacations.

Fortifying school treasuries for the greatest assemblage of pupils in history will be $37½ million in state school foundation checks that had been written today by the State Auditor's office.

This is the first distribution of foundation funds for the 1959-60 fiscal year. Largest amount, $35,320,233.47, is being shared by city, exempted village and local school districts.

County boards of education are to receive $1,945,944.19 while $219,686 is to go to certain counties to be used in replacing school buses.

Pickaway County's portion of the state school money includes the following amounts: Circleville school district, $59,633.59; County Board of Education, $13,087.50; Logan Elm, $13,494.22; Teays Valley $24,708.55, and Westfall, $26,280.03.

Cincy Restaurant Workers Eye Strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federal Mediator James G. Bentley was to try again today to bring negotiators into an agreement which would avert a threatened strike of 1,250 bartenders, waiters, waitresses, cooks and miscellaneous workers. Such a strike would affect 89 Cincinnati taverns and restaurants. They are members of the Cincinnati Culinary Employers' Council.

Another, a young one wearing Castro beard and cap, tells of overhauling the motor of his '53 Chevrolet right after the strike began.

"I see the Pirates when they're in town and drink beer with my buddies at night," he volunteers. The story is much the same up and down the main street of this and other steel towns like Homestead, Ambridge, Rochester, Bill, Tony, Stan and Harry get a little tired of doing nothing.

They're hurt financially too. But it's not the kind of hungry hurt which highlighted steel strikes early in the labor movement.

Instead, they can't buy new automobiles, to take trips to Florida, to make down-payments on refrigerators and washing machines.

Many steel workers seem to look at strikes as necessary evils and save up their money for the long dry spells. Some start salted away money soon after a new contract is negotiated.

The workers hurting enough to ask for public aid are often the marginally employable, the unskilled. Many of these men have not yet recovered financially from the 1958 recession.

They crowd the waiting rooms of public assistance offices in Allegheny, Washington, Westmoreland and Beaver counties each morning. In Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) alone, over 3,700 applications for relief have been made because of the strike.

"We are authorizing assistance at a higher rate than in other strikes, principally because of the recession," says George Mills, director of the Allegheny office.

But he adds: "If the strike continues much longer, more and more people will begin to be in need."

The Salvation Army's division headquarters for western Pennsylvania is receiving more than twice the usual number of applications for food and clothing.

Another busy Pittsburgh office is that of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Employment Security, housed in the impressive glass and steel State Office Building. Here, applications for unemployment compensation are received from persons laid off in industries dependent on steel.

About 19,000 workers have lost their jobs temporarily in construction, railroading, chemicals, fabricated metals and other allied industries. This, however, is a comparatively small number when stacked up against an estimated 108,000 out of work in the steel mills.

Others seeing the dark side of this fifth steel strike since World War II are the small grocers and clothiers, the credit jewelers, the furniture and appliance store operators.

A Monaca, Pa., grocer counts 46 delinquent accounts on his books. In each case the bill owed is well over $100.

"I can't keep going too long at this rate," he says. "Already I'm letting the stock run low. I don't worry about having six brands of cake mix on the shelves today. If I have one brand for sale, that's enough."

"People aren't so fussy when they're buying on credit and can't pay their bills."

By contrast, the face of a Homestead, Pa., hardware dealer is wreathed in smiles.

"Best business I've had since the end of the war," he chuckles. "Everybody's taking this chance to paint the house or fix the water faucets. And my sales are cash only."

Planning Trip Abroad? Don't Let Your Friends Know

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If you're planning a trip abroad, don't tell your friends, advises Joan Gardner, prominent advertising woman and fashion expert of St. Louis.

On the eve of her departure for a seven-week tour of Europe, Joan views with dismay the shopping list she has accumulated from Missouri well-wishers.

"I just asked casually if there was something I could bring them, but I never dreamed it would be anything like this. Everybody seemed to have a list all ready. One man asked me to bring him a Rolls Royce. I thought he was joking, but it turned out he was in dead earnest. Said it would be easy for me to expedite delivery," she said.

Another business associate requested Joan to select a painting for the dining room she had never seen—"just something nice and French to go with a green and tan color scheme."

Another friend requested a mink coat. Joan suggested she get it in America instead.

Joan's trip is one she has been planning most of her life, but has not had time for up to now. A native of St. Louis, she spent some years in New York as fashion editor of Bell Syndicate before returning to her hometown to head up organization and promotion of

The St. Louis Fashion Creators. In 1955 she was named Advertising Woman of the Year. Her itinerary will take her through Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Germany, Italy, France, London and Scotland.

Why Have County Government?

For a long time county government in the U. S. has exemplified that "local self-government" which is lauded by historians. The fantastic growth of American cities throws a new angle into the perspective, however.

Some cities are outgrowing the counties in which they are situated. When that state of affairs exists there is naturally a great deal of talk of combining city and county governments, to avoid duplication of functions.

In Colorado the discussion has taken the form of a battle between the state and the county governments, and some interesting facts are brought out. A resident of Somerset, Gunnison county, has to go through two other county seats, Delta and Montrose, to get to his own at Gunnison. To get from Rico, in Dolores county, to the county seat at Dove Creek, a person must travel 93 miles, most of them in neighboring Montezuma county.

The state has 24 counties with populations of less than 5,000, yet all of them have full sets of county officials, supported by the taxpayers. Colorado's taxes, among the highest in the nation, continue to zoom, with another big boost looming in state income taxes.

Some Colorado citizens are becoming fed up, and point to Alaska and Connecticut, which are not divided into counties. Connecticut formerly had eight.

Want To Succeed? Perspire!

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you have the courage in middle age to quit a $25,000 a year job to try out a new idea in a totally different field?

James J. Harris did. Now he's getting wealthy by charging people to help them give things away.

He has helped the business world give away 75 million free sample products valued at 10 million dollars.

"But you have to believe in an idea awfully hard to take the risks I did," said Harris.

Here's the odd tale behind his unusual success story:

In 1950 Harris, then 45, was one of the country's top photographing salesmen and apparently set for life.

"I was making better than $25,000 a year," he said, "but I wasn't happy. I was getting bored."

One day a chronically unemployed acquaintance dropped in looking for a handout. He was carrying a small packet of perfume.

"It's a sample," he explained to Harris. "I haven't been in a drug store for 10 years. I can get free samples of anything I want by sending a penny postcard."

"This intrigued me," Harris recalled. "So I sat down and sent postcards to 100 leading toiletry and cosmetic firms asking for samples. I got back 82 samples, including 12 cans of tooth powder."

"These companies were interested in sampling the public, but they were wasting their samples on indigents and children, people who rarely went on to become buying customers."

Then Harris got his big idea. Why not package a dozen or so noncompetitive sample products—everything from razor blades to headache pills—and have hotels distribute the kits to their guests as presents?

Harris quit his job, took his $1,200 savings, and set himself up in business, using a $25 a month rented desk as his office.

"At first, when I told manufacturers I expected them to pay me two to three cents for each of their samples I gave away, they thought I was crazy," he said. "But I proved that, in most cases, they already were paying more than this in postage alone."

"Originally, I had intended to give the sample packs to the hotels, but then I figured that if they got them for nothing they would be careless about distribution. I found that they were willing to pay up to 20 cents for the packs, so that's what I charged them."

The first 18 months Harris operated in the red, and had to borrow another $1,200.

"I was down to brushing my teeth with my own toothpaste samples before it started to click," he said. "I almost quit a dozen times."

Now Harris has his own packaging plant, a staff of 50 employees and distributes nearly a million packs a year to 4,000 hotels and 1,200 banks.

In addition to his cosmetic and toiletry packs, he is distributing sample food packs and sample first-aid kits.

The packs at retail would cost from $3 to $5.

"The possibilities are unlimited," said Harris, who feels he's just hitting his stride.

Asked if he weren't afraid rivals would cash in on his idea, Harris merely grinned.

"We've already had some 65 competitors," he said, "and virtually all have come and gone. I had only a 10-cent idea, but I put a million dollars worth of perspiration behind it. That's the real key behind any idea—perspiration."

Educational Revision Needed

By George Sokolsky

In all the discussion about education in the United States, it is not sufficiently emphasized that we are not short of institutions of learning. Take New York State as an example: there are 162 colleges and universities in New York State, which last June conferred 50,000 degrees and had a total student enrollment of nearly 365,000. The faculty and administrators numbered 33,000. This is a whole of an educational establishment.

Other states can show comparable figures in relation to population. What does this quantitative data prove? Suppose these figures were twice or three times as large, what would they prove?

The professional educator seems not to be facing our national educational problem with the seriousness that it requires. It is startling that in a country such as ours, the most aggressive exponent of revision of the total educational program is Admiral Hyman Rickover, a submarine expert, an engineer, an authority on atomic science. He is forced into the educational controversy because of the shortage of adequately equipped scientists and engineers despite the fact that we graduate so many.

What is the problem? In the first place, it must be recalled that during World War II and the Korean War, when large numbers of American young men were being examined in our military forces, the incidence of limited literacy was surprising, particularly as all those who were in the Armed Forces had been to some kind of school. This encouraged an examination of the curricula and teaching methods and there was, at that time, considerable criticism of both.

The principal fault was described as an over-emphasis on methodology in the preparation of teachers. It was contended that the real trouble was in the elementary schools where the children were not taught to read, to spell, to do arithmetic efficiently but their time was wasted on various behavioristic devices. Progressive educators defended the school system, contending that the child was given latitude, freedom and was socially integrated. The question arose as to whether what was called social integration was not a device to kill off individuality.

When the Russians beat us to the Sputnik many Americans were shocked. Their surprise arose from the fact that they had come to believe that the United States was way ahead of the world in science and engineering and that the Russians were uncivilized Tatars. Opposition to Communism led to false assumptions concerning the Russian people.

Actually, in cultural fields no country is really ahead of another. Wherever men can read they can learn whatever is known to humanity.

However, those responsible for our defenses were worried that our colleges and universities were not turning out enough scientists and engineers.

It was found that the American B. A. degree was downgraded and that, in this country, what amounted to university status in Europe required at least an M. A. On the other hand, the humanists complained that our young people were not proficient in foreign languages and literature, that their knowledge of history was inadequate—and that criticism was particularly made of their knowledge of the history and literature of their own country which was found to be shockingly wanting.

This controversy continues and several universities have made entrance into them more difficult; others have up-graded their courses and have made their marking standards more severe. In addition, many steps have been taken to segregate smart boys and girls and to push them on beyond the dullards who cannot move as rapidly. Also, the Armed Forces have given some special consideration to smart boys, who are so necessary for the country's defense if they continued to pursue their studies.

At the same time, there is an increasing realization of the need for thinkers, for those who have initiative and incentive and imagination, who are stirred by something more febrile than security. Education should stimulate the minds and spirits of men and women to accomplish the impossible.

There can be little question but that the American educational system will be modified to meet national as well as individual needs. We may go too far, as we usually do about everything. We may become over-selective. We may apply measurements of accomplishment that are too rigid. But what matters now is that we are conscious, at least, that a university is something more than a lot of majorettes goose-stepping in front of a band. We are accepting, under the stress of the times, the university as a place for mature persons.

Called Too Soon

CORTE MADERA, Calif. (AP) —Dallas Bruce, 43, driving a cement truck with its mixer churning 10 tons of concrete, felt his brakes fail on a hill. He called for an ambulance on his two-way radio before the truck crashed. Bruce suffered a slight cut on his left arm.

LAFF-A-DAY

"There's something fishy going on around here."

Human Eyes Never Relax

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Even while you're asleep, your eyes don't relax completely.

You use your eyes while working. You use them while you are relaxing during leisure hours. You use them, to a degree, even in complete darkness when you can't see a thing.

Since they get so little rest it is obvious that your eyes need good care and frequent checkups.

Just think back over yesterday and how you used your eyes more than any other portion of your body. Unless you managed to catnap your way to or from work, your eyes were busy from the moment you got up.

While the rest of your body was relaxing as you watched television following the evening meal, your eyes were busy carrying every moment on the TV screen to your brain.

Even while you ate, your eyes were as busy as ever.

In a recent series of tests, the pupils of 453 persons were observed in the dark under infrared radiation. Each subject had spent 15 minutes in the dark to give his eyes time to adapt to the situation.

The tests showed that their pupils were not completely at rest, but made very fine contractions from time to time.

Of possibly even more interest is another test in which the eye movements of some 70 persons were observed while they were asleep. Small electrodes were attached to their eyelids and scientists stood by to observe them.

Occasionally the scientists awakened the subjects and questioned them. They found that the individuals in this group dreamed as long as two hours during the night.

67 Cats Too Many

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — Seventy cats in one house are 67 too many, a jury has decided. Dr. Aura Hardison and Miss Marian Martin were convicted of violating an ordinance limiting the number of cats at three for a single residence. Their sentencing was postponed until Oct. 5, pending a motion for a new trial.

During these dreams, the subjects' eyes moved as though watching scenes on a screen. When they dreamed of climbing and other vertical action, their eyes moved up and down.

Dreams of horizontal scenes brought sideways movements and when the subjects dreamed they were viewing something far away their eyes were fixed in the gaze position.

Thus, even though you are resting, your eyes may not be.

Question and Answer
A Reader: Is it always advisable to have piles removed surgically and if neglected, do piles become cancerous?

Answer: If causing symptoms such as pain and bleeding, hemorrhoids (piles) may sometimes be successfully treated by injections. In many cases surgery is the best and surest form of treatment.

Piles do not, as a rule, become cancerous, but a careful examination for cancer higher up must always be made in every case of rectal bleeding.

39 Persons Still Missing In Quake Area

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — Thirty-nine persons still are unaccounted for in this southwestern Montana resort area, a week after earthquakes that rocked the Pacific Northwest.

At one time Monday, the Red Cross listed as many as 88 persons as possibly missing. Many of these were located alive and well.

Nine persons were killed, and a 10th is missing and presumed dead.

The immediate concern here is for the massive earthslide which may have buried alive some campers in the Rock Creek area, downstream from Hebgen Dam where the quake centered.

Water spilling through the dam has formed a seven-mile long lake known as Quake Lake, and officials say the waters will crest the natural dam formed by the rock slide in from 20 to 30 days.

Army engineers from Omaha, Neb., began inspection of the area Monday to determine how best to relieve a flood threat in the senior Madison River canyon. The nearest town is Ennis, Mont., 45 miles downstream.

The engineers are considering whether to use the slide as the core for a permanent dam, or to carve a channel through the slide.

Polaris Rocket

Shot Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A smoke-gushing Polaris rocket darted over the Atlantic on a test flight.

The 28-foot missile, forerunner of the Navy's submarine-launched ballistics missile, appeared to function smoothly.

Range was not a primary concern but if all went right the Polaris would dump its nose cone in the ocean 700 miles downrange. The missile eventually will be capable of hitting targets 1,500 miles away.

Why Have County Government?

For a long time county government in the U. S. has exemplified that "local self-government" which is lauded by historians. The fantastic growth of American cities throws a new angle into the perspective, however.

Some cities are outgrowing the counties in which they are situated. When that state of affairs exists there is naturally a great deal of talk of combining city and county governments, to avoid duplication of functions.

In Colorado the discussion has taken the form of a battle between the state and the county governments, and some interesting facts are brought out. A resident of Somerset, Gunnison county, has to go through two other county seats, Delta and Montrose, to get to his own at Gunnison. To get from Rico, in Dolores county, to the county seat at Dove Creek, a person must travel 93 miles, most of them in neighboring Montezuma county.

The state has 24 counties with populations of less than 5,000, yet all of them have full sets of county officials, supported by the taxpayers. Colorado's taxes, among the highest in the nation, continue to zoom, with another big boost looming in state income taxes.

Some Colorado citizens are becoming fed up, and point to Alaska and Connecticut, which are not divided into counties. Connecticut formerly had eight.

Want To Succeed? Perspire!

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you have the courage in middle age to quit a $25,000 a year job to try out a new idea in a totally different field?

James J. Harris did. Now he's getting wealthy by charging people to help them give things away.

He has helped the business world give away 75 million free sample products valued at 10 million dollars.

"But you have to believe in an idea awfully hard to take the risks I did," said Harris.

Here's the odd tale behind his unusual success story:

In 1950 Harris, then 45, was one of the country's top photoengraving salesmen and apparently set for life.

"I was making better than $25,000 a year," he said, "but I wasn't happy. I was getting bored."

One day a chronically unemployed acquaintance dropped in looking for a handout. He was carrying a small packet of perfume.

"It's a sample," he explained to Harris. "I haven't been in a drug store for 10 years. I can get free samples of anything I want by sending a penny postcard."

"This intrigued me," Harris recalled. "So I sat down and sent postcards to 100 leading toiletry and cosmetic firms asking for samples. I got back 82 samples, including 12 cans of tooth powder."

"These companies were interested in sampling the public, but they were wasting their samples on indigents and children, people who rarely went on to become buying customers."

Then Harris got his big idea. Why not package a dozen or so noncompetitive sample products—everything from razor blades to headache pills — and have hotels distribute the kits to their guests as presents?

Harris quit his job, took his $1,200 savings, and set himself up in business, using a $25 a month rented desk as his office.

"At first, when I told manufacturers I expected them to pay me two to three cents for each of their samples I gave away, they thought I was crazy," he said.

"But I proved that, in most cases, they already were paying more than this in postage alone."

"Originally, I had intended to give the sample packs to the hotels, but then I figured that if they got them for nothing they would be careless about distribution. I found that they were willing to pay up to 20 cents for the packs, so that's what I charged them."

The first 18 months Harris operated in the red, and had to borrow another $1,200.

Mrs. Fisher Top Rose Hybridizer

There are only two or three top flight women rose hybridizers in the whole world. Mrs. Gordon Fisher of Woburn, Mass., is one. She developed one of the first true lavender roses, "Sterling Silver".

And because "Sterling Silver" has a bluish cast to its silver petals it is in the realm of possibility that this interesting, long-stemmed, fragrant lavender rose may be an ancestor to the first blue rose to come out of America. Anyway Gladys Fisher is hoping for a blue rose. And each morning when she views the flats of tiny seedlings she casts a quick glance over the whole lot for a blue rose.

Seedling roses bloom when only two or three inches high. And from these seedlings rosarians work to develop length of stem and texture of petals. The color of the rose seedling never changes.

MRS. FISHER is described as a vivacious, attractive little person, forever sought after as speaker at rose festivals and garden clubs.

ROSE HYBRIDIZER — Mrs. Gordon Fisher of Woburn, Mass., is one of a very few women employed in this work. Mrs. Fisher's masterpiece to date is "Sterling Silver", a true lavender rose which just may be the ancestor of the first blue rose in America. Here she relaxes in her home with a magazine. Ordinarily you'll find her in the greenhouse.

Late Blight On Tomatoes Requires Care

According to Dean Halliday who syndicates garden articles for the Central Press Association, certain weather conditions favor the development of late blight on tomatoes.

It is caused by a strain of the fungus that causes late blight of potatoes.

Spores of the late blight fungus germinate rapidly at temperature of 40 to 70 degrees if the plants are wet.

At temperatures of above 75 degrees in dry weather the spores soon die. This blight spreads most rapidly during damp weather when temperatures do not rise much above 70 degrees.

Symptoms of late blight are greenish-black, water-soaked patches on the leaves. These enlarge rapidly and soon become dark brown, and the affected leaves wither.

Tomato fruits may be attacked at any period of growth. First signs are small, water-soaked blotches. Rotted spots or streaks turn brown and enlarge rapidly.

Give tomato plants plenty of space. When planted too closely together, they dry out slowly after rains or heavy dews, and therefore are more likely to be attacked by the blight.

Late blight can be controlled by copper fungicides. Parzate is effective and safe and is recommended for both early and late blight of tomatoes.

If unusually heavy rains should wash off the first application of a spray for late blight, another spray should be supplied. Normally, the spray coating should be renewed every 10 days.

Oriental Poppies Now Boast Assortment of New Hybrids

Garden No. 11 Oriental Poppies ch Some very interesting things are happening in the poppy world these days. Time was, and not too long ago, when Oriental poppies came in common red-orange and a bluish shade of pink. And that was it.

Now there are dark reds, bright reds, maroons, raspberry-colored poppies, cerise, lavenders, whites and to make things even more interesting poppies of primrose yellow and coal black are being predicted by hybridizers in-the-know.

To date there is actually no black flower. But gardeners can visualize a coal black poppy because many an Oriental poppy has coal black basal spots. A good hybridizer could rather easily breed poppies with larger and larger basal spots until the whole flower was black. And a stunning flower it will be.

Oriental poppies have flowers from seven to 11 inches. Lavender Giant is perhaps the biggest on the market with an 11 inch flower.

CINCINNATI, man, Arthur Curtis, was responsible for the trend in finer poppies. He has retired as a breeder but even now is developing a few fine hybrids. Named varieties may be purchased from Curtis Garden, 8812 Colerain Road, Cincinnati, 39.

Another hybridizer has recently arrived on the scene to give us some superb new poppies. It is Charles Baumgardner, Forest Grove, Oregon. Many of his hybrids are being introduced by Walter Marx, Boring, Oregon, who lists 29 varieties 18 of which are Baumgardner hybrids.

Wayside Gardens, Mentor, list 15 varieties of Oriental Poppies. Flower Grower Magazine (July Number) lists 43 very desirable varieties. In the same issue Martha Pratt Haislett of Bridgeport, W. Va. claims to grow over 125 varieties.

Anyone looking for a flower especially may well turn to the Oriental poppy. Goodness knows it's an easy-to-grow, life-time investment. The needs of the Oriental poppy are few. Reasonably good garden soil and a well drained location seem to be the prime requisites. They will tolerate shade to some degree but planted in full sun will do better. "Beware of any fertilizer other than a mulch," says Charles Baumgardner.

Certain varieties fade in full sun, so light shade is recommended. Most important is the time of planting. This time is from August through October.

Unless in their dormant state they transplant poorly.

Oriental poppies take considerable space. Breeders advise gardeners to plant at least two feet apart.

And Oriental poppies go dormant after their blooming period. Sad to relate they are unsightly in their dormant state and a cover of annuals is essential to hide the dying foliage.

A few good poppies are listed as follows: Pinks, Helen Elizabeth, Adorable Spring Morn, Giant Salmon pink, Betty Ann; reds, John III, Empress of India, Red Crinkles, Sungod; white Barr's White and Queen; Yellow, North Dakota Gold and Golden Promise; lavender, Lavender Glory and Lavender Giant; maroon, Burgundy, Indian Cliffe.

No national oriental poppy society is listed along with other plant societies in the Flower Show Handbook put out by National Council but mark my words!

With all the new and interesting hybrids more gardeners will be trying their skill with oriental poppies. A new plant society will spring to life one of these days. One for oriental poppies!

Tulip Trees for Shade

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

There is much about the tulip tree to commend it to garden makers.

It has an excellent habit of growth, making a fine, straight trunk, and produces attractive greenish-yellow flowers somewhat like tulips in shape.

In the fall, its seed pods can be used in decorative dried arrangements. One of the tree's tulip-like flowers is shown in the accompanying Garden - Graph. A seed pod also is illustrated. In its early stage it is cone-like in shape and tan to purple in color.

The tree belongs to the magnolia family. It has the stamina to endure city conditions. It is also free from infestations of insects.

The leaves are unlike those of any other tree. They are large and designed as though nature originally planned to have them three-lobed, but a section is missing from the terminal lobe, as though cut out almost at a right angle to the midrib.

The fact that the tulip tree has not been used more freely as a specimen planting on home grounds is due to the resentment it manifests when shifted from one place to another.

However, if the young trees are "balled and burlapped" they can be moved with safety from nursery to home grounds.

Garden Gossip

Miss Gertrude Senff, Kingston, reports some interesting mutations in her zinnias this year. She is wondering if other people have noticed the same thing.

Miss Senff was mighty concerned about the picture the Herald photographer took of her. She had her hair in pin-ups the morning he came so she just stuck her old straw hat on and went down to the garden. She has told me confidentially that the picture turned out better than if she'd got herself all gussied up for the occasion.

Anyway we think she was awful sporting about the whole affair.

We met Ralph Boggs in the super market Thursday and invited him out to our sweet corn patch to help himself. He said it was too darned hot to gather corn in anybody's corn patch. And he was about right.

Ralph Boggs lives on S. Washington Street and is a gardener of reputation. He says he hit the jackpot with his tomatoes. He's never had such a fabulous crop. He had to support the individual fruit on one vine. He made little slings for each enormous tomato so it would not break the vine. He had several varieties. They all came from Brehmer Greenhouse. Mortgage Lifters, he said, gave a magnificent harvest.

SPEAKING of vegetables the Loring hills, Kingston, are famed for their vegetables as well as their flowers. Loring was picking lima beans when I called Saturday. And Ruth Hill has been freezing limas this week. She says that beside lima beans they have especially enjoyed their broccoli this summer. The Hills make successive plantings of sweet corn and green beans so that they are assured of these vegetables all summer. They've been eating sweet corn since the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Marvin Jones, Hallsville road, plants her geraniums in iron kettles. They are mighty effective too she says. Last year with so much rain the geraniums were too wet. So her husband bored holes in the kettles for better drainage. Works fine!

This is the month when annuals are at their best. And Mrs. Marvin Jones, who keeps her seed from year to year has cosmos, marigolds, zinnias and plumed cery losia. New this year in her garden are the dwarf celosia and bells of Ireland.

Mrs. Robert Bower, Route 1, Kingston has gourds again this year. The gourd beetles which are such a nuisance and which can play the dickens with gourd vines over night may be controlled with Malathion, Mrs. Bower says. She thinks she does not have as many varieties this year as last but she has healthier vines.

Mrs. Nelson Bower, Route 1, Circleville did not grow gourds this year. Dried gourds last for several years. There's really no need to grow them every year.

Gardeners keep reporting the flowers at a house on 188. It is a remodeled schoolhouse they tell me. And the flowers are lovely. So I'll be looking for this schoolhouse and visiting the people who live there.

A note among my letters at the Herald office said, "The Ned Grooms have an interesting old-fashioned pump in their yard." I came across Mrs. Groom in the super market and asked her about it. She said "yes" and added, "but don't a lot of people have old-fashioned pumps?" My answer was that we had one of our own but it didn't work. Did hers? Mrs. Groom said yes, theirs worked. In fact she used it every day—for the horses!

We were disappointed. We were hoping she'd say she watered her flowers every day from the pump. To date we've never seen a horse lover who was a flower fancier.

MRS. GEORGE Van Camp may be one exception. She really loves flowers and she's gotta love horses.

We just think the rural homes with their gardens of annuals were never so lovely as they are this year. The Jack Hamilton's on Route 56 have made a big color splurge with heavenly blue morning glories and sun flowers. They have their little roadside stand as usual this year. Fresh garden vegetables displayed on a little table!

And Mrs. John Mast's annuals are marvelous. A whole garden of them, zinnias, marigolds and celosia. She has planted celosia in her rose bed so that there's a lot of color even though the roses are resting.

Mrs. Mast gave me a cantaloupe which we had for breakfast. My husband said, "This is the perfect melon!" and it was.

County Gets Land Interest

Schools in 25 counties are receiving interest payments on land set aside more than 150 years ago for educational purposes.

The State Auditor's office has issued $8109.52 in checks to 25 county treasurers who will distribute the funds to schools in certain townships in their counties.

Rhodes also wrote checks totaling $1115.70 to eight different county treasurers. The latter represent interest payments on ministerial lands set aside by the federal government before Ohio became a state.

Counties receiving school funds are: Athens, Belmont, Carroll, Columbiana, Franklin, Gallia, Greene, Guernsey, Hamilton, Hardin, Harrison, Hocking, Lawrence, Lucas, Meigs, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Muskingum, Noble, Perry, Pickaway, Tuscarawas, Vinton and Washington.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Your Low Morals Are Showing

DEAR ABBY: I'd like your help in convincing my husband that we are living in a modern world. We aren't kids. We are in our forties and have been married 18 years. I don't neglect the kids (or him) and see nothing wrong with an affair as long as nobody is hurt. I don't want a divorce. I just want to go on as I have been. Being a woman, you should understand.

AVERAGE WIFE
DEAR AVERAGE: I "understand" but I disagree. Women who see "nothing wrong" with an "affair" need a dog license—not a marriage license.

DEAR ABBY: I love my sister very much. She has been married to a prince of a man for twelve years and they have two children. Her husband was injured on his job and he is in a wheel chair, paralyzed from the waist down. She went to work to help out and met another man (her boss) and fell in love with him. She is presently divorcing her husband to marry the other man. I do not approve of what she is doing, but she is my sister. My husband says he will never speak to her again. He refuses to meet her fiancé. This is making it hard on me. Do you think I should break off relations with my sister because of the way my husband feels? Why shouldn't we be friendly with her and her new husband?

TORN
DEAR TORN: If you want to be friendly with your sister and her new husband, you have a right to, but your husband has the right to ignore them. Your sister has broken a sacred vow "love and cherish in sickness and in health," etc. You might still "love" your sister, but you surely can't respect her.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that little fuss budget who wants everything he eats served on separate dishes, he will have to wash the dishes himself. I'll bet he starts eating off one plate soon.

I once had a small visitor years ago who used to wet her bed the first few nights. After I made her wash her own sheets and hang them out to dry a couple of times, she managed to stay dry. It makes a difference when they have to do the work themselves.

MOTHER OF FOUR
DEAR MOTHER: Bed-wetters should not be dealt with in the same manner as "fuss-budgets" who want their food served on separate plates. A bed-wetter is usually the innocent victim of an act over which he has no control.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of this newspaper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Red Cross Outlines Blood Donor Process

This is the story of a lifeline—one that provides a steady flow of blood from donor to patient, making possible many of the miracles of modern medicine, according to local Red Cross officials today.

The donor's pulse, blood pressure, temperature and blood hemoglobin content are checked, to assure the donor's physical fitness.

After the blood is collected it is taken to the laboratory of the regional center. There it undergoes certain tests including those to determine group and Rh factor.

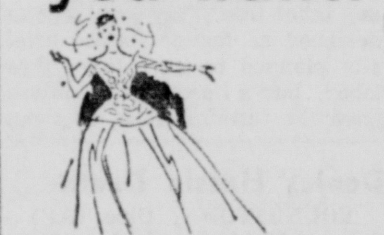

Blood brought to the hospital from the regional center is always cross-matched to see whether the donor's blood is compatible with the patient's.

After a pint of blood is collected, it is stored in a refrigerator at the Red Cross regional center or hospital blood bank. The temperature must be kept within 39-41 degrees fahrenheit. Should this temperature vary, an alarm signals automatically.

Hundreds of transfusions were made at Berger Hospital last year. Much time and care is taken in each of these transfusions to make certain that everyone—the patient, the donor, the hospital and the Red Cross—is protected. There is no room for mistakes in supplying blood, the life-giving element of the human body.

If you are now taking milk in your coffee you'll find the beverage will be at its best if you heat the milk, then pour both coffee and milk (use both hands!) into your cup or mug at the same time. Booster Club Eyes Gridiron Projects

The Circleville Booster Club has outlined several projects here in anticipation of the coming football season.

Foremost in the planning is the purchase of new uniforms for the Circleville High School grid team. Another project is the construction and erection of a huge printed schedule of the football games.

Plans call for the sign to be placed at an obvious place in the downtown area, possibly at Court and Main Sts. Ralph Starkey is in charge of the project.

Another undertaking of the Boosters is a plan to sell tickets on a television set which will be awarded near the end of football season. Money from this project will go toward payment of the new football uniforms.

THE CLUB also agreed to continue presenting a most valuable football player award. A trophy is presented to an outstanding CHS gridder who best meets a list of qualifications set down by the Booster Club and CHS coaches. The award is made at the end of the season.

Other plans call for the showing of films of Tiger grid games on Tuesdays following the contests.

Merchantmen Reach Finals At Bremen

The Circleville Merchants advanced to the finals of the Bremen Invitational Softball Tournament with a 3-2 victory over Anchor-Hocking Glass of Lancaster Monday night.

The Merchants will meet Philo Thursday to start the best of a three game series to decide the tourney championship. Softball jackets will go to the winners.

Kenney Reid tossed a five-hitter for the Monday night decision. The Merchants poked four safeties, with Elmer Phifer and Junior Taylor each getting a double.

The Merchants tallied single runs in the fourth, fifth and six innings. Anchor-Hocking got one in the second and one in the fourth, the latter the result of Christian's homer.

Reid chalked eight strikeouts in getting the victory. He walked four.

U.S., Aussie To Name Cup Teams Today

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the worst-kept secrets in tennis was to be let out of the bag today in the draw for the Davis Cup challenge round.

For weeks, both Perry Jones, the U.S. captain, and Harry Hopman, Australian pilot, have declined to name the makeup of their teams for the event starting Friday at Forest Hills. But if anyone other than Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay is named for the American singles assignments or Neale Fraser and Roy Laver for the Australians, it would come as the shock of the year.

Likewise, Olmedo and Earl Buchholz are regarded as certain to carry the U.S. hopes in doubles while Fraser is expected to team with Roy Emerson for Australia.

The first two singles matches will be played Friday at the West Side Tennis Club. On Saturday, it will be the doubles and on Sunday the final two singles.

Top Trapshooters Battle For National Crown Today

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—America's top trapshooters at the 60th Grand American battle today for one of the sport's most coveted crowns.

On tap is the amateur clay target championship of America, a 200-clay race at 16 yards. The Western Hemisphere's best man, woman, junior, sub-junior and professional shot will be named.

Favored to win the men's laurels today is Arnold Riegger of Castle Rock, Wash., who has broken 820 in a row at 16 yards in minor events here plus another 350 in shootoffs, the latter not counting in record strings. Riegger is aiming at the world record of 1,179 registered targets without a miss set by Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, Ohio, 21 years ago. Hiestand's record, including shoot-offs, was 1,404.

Although Riegger hasn't missed a target since last Friday he is still involved in shootoffs in Tuesday's Class AA title and for the state champions race of Monday. He and Dan Orlich of Reno, Nev., are fighting for both titles while Herb Longden of Taylorville, Ill., opposes them in the Class AA extra heats halted Tuesday night by darkness.

Winners in various divisions Tuesday:

In the past three years, 84 million dollars were spent for new equipment and better service. In the next three years, we expect to spend another 51 million dollars. LL Series Goes Into 2nd Game Tonight

The second game of the best of three series for the Little League minors championship between First National (12-3) and Ward's Market (11-5) will take place at 5:30 p. m. today on the Ted Lewis Park little diamond.

The Bankers were winners of the first tilt, 10-9, on a sixth inning home run by Eddie Evans with two men on base. A first National win will give it the title.

The Grocers, who led twice during the initial contest, 5-2 and 8-5, must win to stay alive.

First National probably will throw Larry Sykes and Ward's may counter with either Doug Pontious or Millard Good.

The bankers were stronger at the plate than the Grocers, as expected, but Ward's capitalized on the base paths and took advantage of the eight walks given up by winning pitcher Buddy Strehle.

Jerry Jenkins who took the loss for Ward's gave up 12 hits, seven doubles and one homer and issued only one free pass. Strehle held Ward's to six hits.

Ward's Market will enter tonight's game a definite underdog, as it did the first tilt, but in Little League baseball anything can happen and usually does.

Van Fossen Slated At Vandalia Shoot

Alfred Van Fossen, E. Union St., is all set for a trip to Vandalia to represent the local Route 23 Gun Club in the upcoming Grand American Trap Shoot.

Finals of the event are scheduled for Friday.

K of P Keglers Open Thursday

The local Philos Lodge No. 64, Knights of Pythias Bowling League is scheduled to start here Thursday. Starting time has been set at 8:30 p. m. at Circle D Recreation on E. Main St.

Six teams will participate in loop action this season. Russ Lane is president of the league.

Beulah Is Ready For Fall Season

Robert Y. Dienst will serve as president and general manager of Beulah Park for the fall meeting which runs from September 5 through October 3, a span of 25 days. He succeeds his father R. J. Dienst, who held these posts since 1937 until his sudden death a few days ago.

The younger Dienst has announced that the same policies established by his father will be followed and that the same crew which handled racing in the past will be in charge of the various departments.

Highlight of the meeting, as usual, will be the 15th running of the Ohio Championship on October 3. This mile and a sixteenth test carries $10,000 in added money and nominations for it will close on September 19, two weeks prior to the running.

Canada Favored For Harmsworth

DETROIT (AP)—Canada was as close today to snatching the Harmsworth trophy from the United States as any nation has been since Gar Wood brought it to these shores 39 years ago.

Canada's Miss Supertest III, with more engine stamina than the United States' defending Ma-verick, won the first of the best-of-three 45-mile races Tuesday on the Detroit River.

A victory today or Tuesday would give the trophy, symbol of international powerboat racing supremacy, to Canada for the first time.

England has won the trophy five times, France once, the United States 16 times.

If You've Read All the Bad News in This Paper... Here's Some Good News About Gin

Until now, gin has left the still with "rough spots" which distillers smother carefully with juniper and other aromatics.

Now there is a gin with the rough spots distilled out. It needs no aromatic disguises. This gin is sipping-smooth and dry as Vermont wit. You can make a Martini with just the gin and ice (ending forever the question of how much vermouth). Or you can take it straight without one wine.

We call it Schenley Smooth American Gin, mostly because that's what it is. Sometimes when we're feeling less formal, we refer to it as "S.A."

You can too, if you like. Three things for you to remember: (1) Schenley, (2) Smooth American, (3) Gin. By the way, the code number is 354B, the price is only $3.61 a fifth. Distilled from 100% Grain Neutral Spirits, eighty proof. Schenley Distillers Company, New York City.

Canada Favored For Harmsworth

DETROIT (AP)—Canada was as close today to snatching the Harmsworth trophy from the United States as any nation has been since Gar Wood brought it to these shores 39 years ago.

Canada's Miss Supertest III, with more engine stamina than the United States' defending Marverick, won the first of the best-of-three 45-mile races Tuesday on the Detroit River.

A victory today or Tuesday would give the trophy, symbol of international powerboat racing supremacy, to Canada for the first time.

England has won the trophy five times, France once, the United States 16 times.

If You've Read All the Bad News in This Paper... Here's Some Good News About Gin

Until now, gin has left the still with "rough spots" which distillers smother carefully with juniper and other aromatics.

Now there is a gin with the rough spots distilled out. It needs no aromatic disguises.

This gin is sipping-smooth and dry as Vermont wit. You can make a Martini with just the gin and ice (ending forever the question of how much vermouth). Or you can take it straight without one wince.

We call it Schenley Smooth American Gin, mostly because that's what it is. Sometimes when we're feeling less formal, we refer to it as "S.A." You can too, if you like.

Three things for you to remember: (1) Schenley, (2) Smooth American, (3) Gin.

By the way, the code number is 334B, the price is only $3.61 a fifth. Distilled from 100% Grain Neutral Spirits, eighty proof. Schenley Distillers Company, New York City.

Moon Bounces Radar Pulse

MALVERN, England (AP) — Radar signals were received in Texas today after being bounced off the moon by the Royal Radar Establishment here, the government announced.

A Ministry of Supply spokesman said the bleep-sounding signals sent out by the 45-foot radio telescope here were received clearly by a smaller telescope at the Electrical Engineering Research Laboratory at the University of Texas.

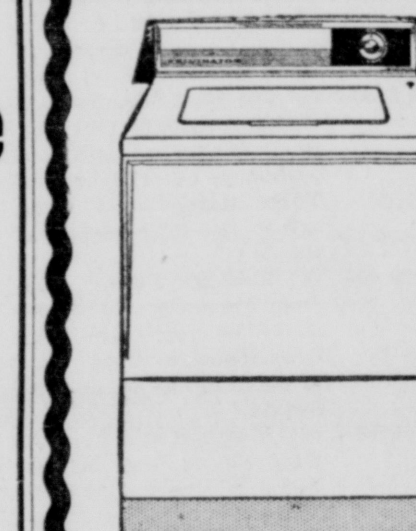

The spokesman said the experiment was the result of joint investigation by Malvern experts and the Texas university scientists into the nature of the moon's surface.

The radar pulses, each of 5 micro-seconds duration and 2 megawatts power, were transmitted at a rate of 250 pulses per second.
